We’ll gather by the twilight’s glow
In front of old Pardee.
In all the world no other scene
So fair, so dear to me.
O Lafayette, O Lafayette,
To thee our voices raise!
While loyal lips and loyal hearts
Unite to sing thy praise.

IN MEMORIAM

TERESE HEIDENWOLF, director of research and instructional services, passed away March 6, 2024.

Heidenwolf joined Skillman Library in August 1992 as a reference librarian after having received undergraduate and graduate degrees from University of Notre Dame and University of Michigan. During her long, outstanding career at Lafayette, she radically transformed the library into what it is today: the heart and soul of the campus and a vibrant, model 21st century library.

Heidenwolf created, secured, and expanded opportunities for librarians to work alongside faculty in the classroom. In 2008, she received a Marquis Distinguished Teaching Award for her groundbreaking work in information literacy and her exceptional teaching. Through her diligence and innovation and in collaboration with faculty, Heidenwolf assembled a robust collection that supports faculty teaching, research, and student intellectual pursuit. She also served on many committees, and twice chaired the Governance Committee.

“No one has defined and symbolized the library’s longstanding ethos of service and scholarship better than Terese,” asserts D.C. Jackson, Cornelia F. Hugel Professor of History. And yet what was remarkable about Heidenwolf lay not in her wisdom, her unmatched work ethic, and her multiple professional talents as a writer, teacher, and research librarian, but rather in her ability to step aside to give people the room to shine. Dean Emeritus of Libraries Neil McElroy reflects, “Everyone who has worked with her or spent time with her is more likely to flourish, not just in their institutional or professional roles, but also as human beings.”

Heidenwolf’s funeral was held March 12, 2024.

JOSEPH (JOE) H. SHIEBER, James Renwick Hogg Professor of Mental and Moral Philosophy, passed away April 7, 2024.

Shieber earned his Ph.D. in philosophy from Brown University, studied mathematics and philosophy at Freie Universität Berlin, and earned a B.A. in literature from Yale. He joined Lafayette as assistant professor in 2003, was promoted to associate professor in 2010 and full professor in 2021, and named the James Renwick Hogg Professor of Mental and Moral Philosophy in 2023.

Shieber, a specialist in epistemology, authored Testimony: An Introduction (2015), contributed a 24-lecture course titled “Theories of Knowledge: How to Think about What You Know” to The Great Courses series, and was completing a new book titled Knowledge for Zombies. Shieber also published articles, book chapters, and columns on topics ranging from 18th century Scottish philosophy, to socially distributed cognition, to the myth of meritocracy. According to Owen McLeod, associate professor and head of the Department of Philosophy, Shieber was “a brilliant and astonishingly productive philosopher.”

A dedicated and beloved teacher, Shieber has been credited by his students with inspiring them to become philosophy majors. “I came into school as an English major, and within two weeks of sitting in his class, I knew that because of him, [philosophy was] what I wanted to do,” says Charlotte Marshall ’24. Jacob Moldover ’24 remembers Shieber as “the kindest professor I ever had.”

Shieber’s funeral was held April 12, 2024. Contributions in his memory may be made to Tyler Arboretum, 515 Painter Road, Media, PA 19063.

RETIRING FACULTY ELECTED TO EMERITUS STATUS

JAMILA BOOKWALA, professor of psychology, has been a member of the faculty for 23 years.

She earned a Bachelor of Arts in psychology from University of Bombay, and her master’s and doctoral degrees from University of Pittsburgh. Bookwala joined the faculty as assistant professor in 2001, and was promoted to associate professor with tenure in 2006 and full professor in 2012. She served as head of the Department of Psychology from 2014 to 2015.

Bookwala has published more than 60 works encompassing 40 journal articles, many book chapters, and several books, including the recent Reflections from Pioneering Women in Psychology. Bookwala has a forthcoming handbook, The Resource Handbook for Academic Deans, 4th edition. She has given almost 100 presentations, many at top-tier conferences in her field.

Bookwala has given a wealth of service and leadership to the College and to her profession. For Lafayette, she has served as chair of the Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Council; deputy Title IX coordinator; chair of the Aging Studies Advisory Committee; dean of curriculum and research; dean of faculty; and many others. She directed initiatives in advancing diversity and inclusion, and prioritized faculty support and wellness. For her profession, Bookwala has served as chair of the Committee on Women and Aging of the American Psychological Association and editorial board member for The Gerontologist, The Journals of Gerontology, and Psychology and Aging. She also has served on the American Psychology Association’s Board of Scientific Taskforce on Inequities in Promotion and Tenure. Bookwala currently serves as provost at Gettysburg College.

An outstanding teacher, Bookwala received the Thomas Roy and Lura Forrest Jones Award for superior teaching and scholarly contribution, as well as the Christian R. and Mary F. Lindback Foundation Distinguished Teaching Award for excellence in teaching and outstanding contributions to campus life. She earned the Daniel H. Weiss Award for Leadership and Vision in 2022 and 2019 for her work on Lafayette College’s COVID-19 response team and Middle States Reaccreditation Steering Committee, respectively. Bookwala is a Fellow of the American Council of Academic Deans, the Gerontological Society of America, and the American Psychological Association.

ROSE MARIE L. BUKICS, Thomas Roy and Lura Forrest Jones Professor of Economics, has been a member of the faculty for 44 years.

She earned a Bachelor of Science in economics from University of Scranton, as well as an MBA from Lehigh University. Bukics joined the faculty as an assistant professor in 1980, and was promoted to associate professor with tenure in 1988 and full professor in 1995. She became the Thomas Roy and Lura Forrest Jones Professor of Economics in 2002, and served as head of the Department of Economics from 1991 to 1995.

Bukics is the longest-serving female faculty member in the history of Lafayette College and has therefore impacted many in the past, present, and future. A CPA in the state of Pennsylvania, a former external auditor with Deloitte Touche, and a former internal auditor for a utility company, Bukics nicely complemented the Department of Economics by providing students with financial theory and business ethics perspective. She has served as an academic and career adviser for countless students during her time at the College, and she still keeps in touch with many of them. Many of her students have expressed they are forever grateful for her manner in teaching, demanding excellence and high expectations, as she changed their lives. "As an educator, I want to touch a life in a way that matters in the long run," Bukics says. Her teaching received accolades beyond College Hill: She was named an Outstanding Educator by the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants in 2012, and she received the Frank J. O'Hara Award from University of Scranton in 1997 in recognition of distinguished achievement in education. She also has established the Bukics Family Scholarship Fund to help students with financial aid.

Bukics has published eight books in accounting and finance, plus two textbooks that she gifts to students in her Financial Accounting and Financial Theory Analysis courses. She is consistently editing this textbook to teach students the ongoing changes in accounting and financial reporting regulations. Bukics has served as chair of the editorial board of the Pennsylvania CPA Journal and as a member of the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants, and she has contributed to top-tier journals in her field, including Journal of Accountancy and Accounting Today.

At Lafayette, Bukics has served as the acting dean of studies, as well as chair and member of the Appeals and Grievance Committee; Promotion, Tenure, and Review Committee; and FYS Advisory Committee. She also has been on many search committees. Bukics is a member of several professional organizations, including American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, American Accounting Association, and Association of Certified Fraud Examiners. In the community, she serves on the board of Third Street Alliance, Easton Municipal Water Authority, and several other organizations.

Bukics earned the Omicron Delta Epsilon Faculty Award for overall contribution to the Economics Department nine times. She was the recipient of the James E. Lennertz Prize for Exceptional Teaching and Mentoring, Marquis Distinguished Teaching Award, Daniel L. Golden '34 Faculty Service Award, Lindback Foundation Distinguished Teaching Award, and Student Government Award for Excellence in Teaching.

EVAN D. FISHER, professor of mathematics, has been a member of the faculty for 38 years.

He earned a Bachelor of Arts in mathematics from University of Rochester, as well as a Master of Science and doctoral degree from University of Illinois, Urbana-

Champaign. Fisher joined the faculty as an assistant professor in 1986, and was promoted to associate professor with tenure in 1992 and full professor in 2005. He served as head of the Department of Mathematics from 2000 to 2003.

Fisher's research interests are in probability theory and stochastic processes. He teaches courses in statistics, calculus, probability, and stochastic processes, and he supervises honors, EXCEL, and independent study students. He provides a great deal of mentorship and advising to students, including students considering careers as actuaries. In his teaching of liberal arts statistics, Fisher is energized by helping students see the relevance of what they learn to current events, and helping them attain a level of statistical fluency. Fisher has supervised honors theses, co-published with students in peer-reviewed mathematics journals, supervised independent studies, served as a research supervisor in summer REU programs, and conducted EXCEL research projects—the most recent of which resulted in a contribution to The On-Line Encyclopedia of Integer Sequences.

Fisher has demonstrated that he is a dedicated member of the department, College, and profession. He served as associate head of the Department of Mathematics as well as the department's library liaison; he chaired this committee on two separate occasions. Fisher also was the actuarial profession adviser and has organized a year-end reception for graduating students with mathematics majors. For the College, Fisher has served on the Appeal and Grievance Committee; Promotion, Tenure, and Review Committee; Health Care Advisory Subcommittee; and Faculty Compensation Committee. He also chaired the Academic Progress Committee and served on three Trustee committees. For the profession, Fisher contributed as an editor for an American Mathematical Society/ Mathematical Association of America book series, served as a grader for the prestigious annual William Lowell Putnam Examination Competition, and has been a referee for several journals, including Mathematical Association of America's Mathematics Magazine.

ROBERT S. MATTISON, Marshall R. Metzgar Professor of Art, has been a member of the faculty for 43 years.

He earned a Bachelor of Arts in art history from Middlebury College, a Master of Arts from Williams College, and a Master of Fine Arts and doctoral degree from Princeton University. Mattison joined the faculty as an assistant professor in 1981, and was promoted to associate professor with tenure in 1988 and full professor in 1995. Mattison was named Marshall R. Metzgar Professor of Art in 2001. He served as head of the Department of Art for a collective 12 years.

Mattison's areas of interest are modern and contemporary art, 19th century art, and the history of architecture. In his teaching and scholarship, Mattison emphasizes the manner in which artworks connect to their historical, social, and political environments. His teaching methodology includes directly engaging students with artists, galleries, museums, private collections, and auction houses in New York and other cities. Mattison has led many international study trips for students to Paris, Vienna, Berlin, London, Istanbul, and other cities. He was the first professor at the College to teach Modern Art History and Architectural History. Mattison has been an adviser and mentor to many students in the context of independent studies, honors projects, and the EXCEL Scholars program.

Mattison has produced eight books, the catalogue raisonné of paintings by Franz Kline, and more than 130 articles and exhibition catalogs. His books include monographs on Robert Motherwell, Grace Hartigan, Robert Rauschenberg, Arshile Gorky, and Franz Kline. He has curated more than 50 national and international exhibitions, and directed 20 artists' residencies at Lafayette.

At the College, Mattison co-founded and directed the minor in architectural studies, founded the Grossman Artist-in-Residence program, co-founded the Rothkopf Scholars program and the Third Street Artist-in-Residence program, and served on the Experimental Printmaking Advisory Group. Through the donations of generous alumni, a grant will be inaugurated this year in his name to provide research and travel funds for honors students in art history.

Mattison earned the Joseph Johnson Hardy Award, Mary Louise Van Artsdalen Prize for outstanding scholarly achievement, Thomas Roy and Lura Forrest Jones Award, Sears-Roebuck Award for superior scholarship and teaching, Marquis Distinguished Teaching Award, and Daniel L. Golden '34 Faculty Service Award. He delivered the Thomas Roy and Lura Forrest Jones Faculty Lecture in 1988.

JOHN MEIER, provost and professor of mathematics, has been a member of the faculty for 32 years.

He earned a Bachelor of Arts in mathematics from University of Virginia, and a Master of Science and doctoral degree from Cornell University. Meier joined the faculty as an assistant professor in 1992, and was promoted to associate professor with tenure in 1999 and full professor in 2004. He was named David M. '70 and Linda Roth Professor of Mathematics in 2017, and has served as provost since 2019.

Meier has taught courses across the mathematics curriculum, from calculus and applied statistics to the history of mathematics and abstract algebra. Students voted to give him the Student Government Superior Teaching Award in his third year at the College. Meier not only enjoys teaching, but also has a scholarly interest in the teaching of mathematics. He co-authored a book on the use of writing to teach mathematics and was part of a national team to put together an Instructional Practices Guide for the Mathematics Association of America.

Meier's primary research is in geometric group theory, for which he has received external funding from the U.S. National Science Foundation and the American Mathematical Society. He has published three books, including one that is co-authored with Derek Smith, professor of mathematics at Lafayette. He has published more than 50 articles, frequently with student co-authors, and has given more than 100 conference presentations, colloquia, and seminars.

Meier's service to the College, profession, and community has been extensive and notable. Meier served on dozens of elected and appointed committees as a member of the faculty, and he served in multiple administrative roles prior to becoming provost. For the profession, he has served on committees of the American Mathematical Society, on the editorial board for the Cambridge Mathematical Textbooks series, and as a reviewer and panelist for the National Science Foundation.

During his time at Lafayette, Meier has shown himself to be an exceptional teacher, scholar, and administrator. In addition to several awards at Lafayette, he received the James P. Crawford Distinguished Teaching Award from the Mathematical Association of America, an award named after a former colleague in Lafayette's Department of Mathematics.

JOHN A. NESTOR, professor of electrical and computer engineering, has been a member of the faculty for 24 years.

He earned a Bachelor of Arts in electrical engineering from Georgia Institute of Technology, and a Master of Science and doctoral degree from Carnegie Mellon University. Nestor joined the faculty as an associate professor in 2000, was tenured in 2004, and was promoted to full professor in 2010. He served as head of the Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering from 2011 to 2017.

Nestor's areas of interest include computer-aided design for VLSI, visualization aids for engineering education, design of VLSI circuits and systems, digital design using field-programmable gate array, and hardware description languages. A thoughtful and creative instructor who deeply cares about his students' learning, Nestor prepares electrical and computer engineering students to practice in their field, and encourages non-majors to appreciate the impact of electrical and computer engineering technology in society. Nestor has taught 15 different classes at Lafayette, supervised 17 honors thesis students and 17 EXCEL students, and served as an adviser for many students.

Nestor was the primary author of two chapters of a book, Algorithmic and Register-Transfer Level Synthesis: The Systems Architect's Workbench, and he has authored publications appearing in more than 35 conference proceedings and journals.

Nestor has demonstrated significant leadership in his department, the College, and the profession. He served as founding co-chair for the Center for Innovation, Design, Entrepreneurship, and Leadership (IDEAL) as well as on multiple search committees for administrators and faculty. Nestor has served on the Appeal and Grievance Committee; Promotion, Tenure, and Review Committee; Academic Progress Committee; Faculty Compensation Committee; and many others. He also served as an alternate faculty associate for the Trustee Educational Policy Committee. A life senior member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE), Nestor served as general chair and program chair of the IEEE International Conference on Microelectronic Systems Education and as a technical reviewer for more than 15 journals, conferences, textbook publishers, and organizations, including the National Science Foundation.

Nestor earned the Marquis Distinguished Teaching Award in 2013 and was the recipient of two National Science Foundation grants.

MICHAEL C. O'NEILL, professor of theater, has been a member of the faculty for 32 years.

He earned a Bachelor of Arts in English from Fordham University, and a Master of Arts and doctoral degree from Purdue University. O'Neill joined the faculty as a lecturer and director of theater in 1992. He was appointed as associate professor in 2005, tenured in 2009, and promoted to full professor in 2022. He served as head of the Department of Theater from 2014 to 2017.

A professor who integrates humor to engage students, O'Neill proposed a minor in theater, which was brought to fruition in the mid-1990s. Years later, it evolved into a viable major with its own department, with O'Neill running the theater production arm as the producing artistic director. O'Neill's pedagogical approach is grounded in literary study exposing students to a variety of styles and cultures from various historical periods; he also incorporates live performance into his courses. He has taught courses in theater and English, as well as First-Year Experience and London Abroad.

O'Neill has an impressive record of scholarly accomplishment. He has published numerous theater performance reviews in prestigious theater journals, peer-reviewed articles, and a book-length manuscript. O'Neill has directed and produced an impressive number of stage productions—including 45 at Lafayette—informed by his extensive research, and has written original plays, adaptations, and musical revues for stage and radio.

O'Neill has played an important role in the creation and development of the Department of Theater, having served in the planning of theater facilities in the Williams Arts campus. He also was integral in establishing and managing the Theater Department Legacy Endowment Fund. O'Neill has served on the Arts Advisory Committee and Faculty Committee on Student Life.

O'Neill has received the Delta Upsilon Distinguished Mentoring and Teaching Award and Marquis Distinguished Teaching Award. He is the founding director for College Theater Angels and Theater Legacy Endowment Fund. O'Neill began Easton Good Neighbor Nights, opening up each final dress rehearsal with members of the community. His commitment to developing connections with Easton and the surrounding communities will be felt for decades to come.

POLLY R. PIERGIOVANNI, Air Products/Ghasemi Chair in Engineering for Interdisciplinary Education, has been a member of the faculty for 34 years.

She earned a Bachelor of Science in chemical engineering from Kansas State University and a doctoral degree from University of Houston. Piergiovanni joined the faculty as an assistant professor of chemical and biomolecular engineering in 1990, and was promoted to associate professor with tenure in 1996 and full professor in 2014. She was named the inaugural Air Products/Ghasemi Chair in Engineering for Interdisciplinary Education in 2020. She served as head of the Department of Chemical and Biomolecular Engineering from 2007 to 2010.

Piergiovanni's areas of interest are engineering education, laboratory development, and food engineering. A creative teacher, she infuses course design with a hands-on approach to give students a memorable experience. One of these creative course designs was the development of the interim course A Taste of Italian Engineering, in which students traveled to Italy to tour a pasta manufacturer and then make fresh pasta under the guidance of a local chef, as well as other courses designed to create learning-through-doing experiences. Piergiovanni has taught Introduction to Engineering, many courses in the chemical engineering curriculum, and a First-Year Seminar.

Piergiovanni, who has earned more than 15 grants, has published papers in journals such as the Journal of Chemical Education as well as Chemical Engineering Education, where she served on the editorial board. In 2017, she was awarded the William H. Corcoran Award from the American Society for Engineering Education (ASEE) for the most outstanding peer-reviewed article in Chemical Engineering Education.

A strong leader within her department, at the College, and within the profession, Piergiovanni has served on the Instructional Technology Advisory Committee; Teaching and Learning Committee; Student Life Committee; CITLS (Center for the Integration of Teaching, Learning, and Scholarship) Advisory Committee; Health Professions Advisory Committee; and many others. She also was chair-elect of the Chemical Engineering Division of the ASEE and a member of AIChE.

Piergiovanni was awarded the Marquis Distinguished Teaching Award and the B. Vincent Viscomi Engineering Prize for Excellence in Mentoring and Teaching.

ANDREW J. VINCHUR, Charles A. Dana Professor of Psychology, has been a member of the faculty for 35 years.

He earned a Bachelor of Arts in psychology from Rutgers University, and a Master of Science and doctoral degree in industrial-organizational psychology from University of Memphis. Vinchur joined the faculty as an assistant professor in 1989, and was promoted to associate professor with tenure in 1994 and full professor in 2011. He was named Charles A. Dana Professor of Psychology in 2020. He served as head of the Department of Psychology from 2005 to 2014.

Vinchur has taught more than a dozen different courses at Lafayette, including courses in industrial psychology, organizational behavior, statistics, measurement, personality psychology, history and systems, introductory psychology, a First-Year Seminar on predicting human behavior, a senior capstone exploring fundamental questions in psychology, and lab courses in experimental psychology and in advanced statistics. He has worked with more than 140 students on individual research projects, including supervising 28 honors thesis students.

During the first half of his professional career, Vinchur conducted research on personnel selection, meta-analysis, and psychometrics. In the second half, he made the history of psychology, especially industrial-organizational psychology, his primary research focus. Vinchur is the author of The Early Years of Industrial and Organizational Psychology, and is currently co-editing and contributing chapters to Key Thinkers in Industrial and Organizational Psychology. He has published dozens of book chapters and articles in top-tier journals, such as the Journal of Applied Psychology.

Vinchur's service to the department and the College has been exemplary. In addition to also serving as acting and assistant department head, he served on numerous elected and appointed committees and task forces, including Appeals and Grievance, Faculty Academic Policy, and the Trustee Grounds and Buildings Committee. He was on 25 search committees, chairing 10 of them. On the professional level, Vinchur was a journal editorial board member and a reviewer for multiple journals. He served as the historian and as a member of the executive committee for the Society for Industrial and Organizational Psychology. Vinchur was licensed as a psychologist in Pennsylvania and Nebraska.

WALTER R. "SKIP" WILKINS III, associate professor of music, has been a member of the faculty for 24 years.

Wilkins earned a Bachelor of Arts in music from Holy Cross College, and a Master of Music from the University of Northern Colorado. Wilkins joined the faculty as an assistant professor in 2000 and was promoted to associate professor with tenure in 2008.

Wilkins has contributed much to the place of music in the lives of Lafayette's students. He gives a great deal of one-on-one time to his students and is especially known for inspiring his students to achieve in his challenging music theory and jazz-related courses. His areas of professional specialization include jazz piano performance, improvisation, composition, theory, arranging, and history. Wilkins has taught 13 music courses and a First-Year Seminar, and designed new courses, including Jazz Improvisation, Great American Songbook, Modern Jazz: Bebop and Beyond, and others. He emphasized aural skills development in his Jazz Ensemble and especially risk-taking.

Wilkins has served as an academic adviser to many students from across campus. In the Department of Music, he helped organize recitals and coordinate the Sheng Family Endowment program. Wilkins has served on the Arts Advisory Committee, Russian and East European Studies Committee, and Creative and Performing Arts Fellowship Committee.

Wilkins has performed and recorded with his own groups, as a collaborator with countless others, with Phil Woods and the Festival Orchestra, and with various stars when they have come to town—including David Liebman, Stanley Turrentine, Bobby Watson, Plas John, Clark Terry, Mark Murphy, and Peter Erskine, among many others. He has given hundreds of performances nationally and internationally as a jazz pianist and as part of the Skip Wilkins Quartet, and has received outstanding reviews and recognition for his work. In 2024, Wilkins will release his 17th CD, Maybe It Happens This Way. He continues to serve often as a clinician and workshop presenter in workshops and festivals in the U.S., Canada, and Europe. Wilkins was honored with a 2022 Czech Television documentary of his career as a performer and educator in the Czech Republic.

CANDIDATES FOR HONORARY DEGREES

ROBERT L. FREEMAN is a Democratic member of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, serving the 136th Legislative District.

Freeman was born in Easton, Pa., March 9, 1956, and is the son of the late Joyce Styers Freeman and the late Jacob B. Freeman. He graduated from Easton Area High School in 1975. Freeman earned his bachelor's degree in history and political science from Moravian College in 1978. He earned his master's degree in history from Lehigh University in 1984.

Freeman was first elected to the Pennsylvania House of Representatives in 1982 and served six two-year terms before leaving as the result of an unsuccessful bid for the State Senate in 1994.

From 1995 to 1997, he served as executive director of the Senate Democratic Policy Committee and as Democratic executive director of the Senate Local Government Committee from 1997 to 1998. He returned to the Pennsylvania House of Representatives in 1998 and has been reelected ever since.

Freeman is a former shop steward and member of the UFCW union. He is a recipient of the Elton Stone Award and Moravian College History Prize. He authored the article "Light Rail and the Lehigh Valley," which appeared in the New Valley Press in 1981.

During his previous 12 years in the House, Freeman served as chairman of the House Select Committee on Land Use and Growth Management (1991-92), which recommended ways to improve growth management and reduce sprawl. He was one of the leaders in revising the Municipalities Planning Code in 2000 and wrote the Traditional Neighborhood Development section of the MPC. He authored the Elm Street Program, designed to revitalize older residential neighborhoods. The Elm Street legislation was signed into law in February 2004. Freeman was elected to the Easton Home Rule Charter Study Commission in 2006 and served as its chairman. The charter was approved by voters in 2007.

He is recognized for his work on behalf of smart growth land use policies, environmental protection, and historic preservation. He has received awards from 10,000 Friends of Pennsylvania and Preservation Pennsylvania for his leadership on these issues.

Freeman is chairman of the House Local Government Committee. He has previously served on the Labor Relations, Local Government, Environmental Resources and Energy, and State Government committees.

Freeman, who resides in Easton, is married to Terri Arshan Freeman and has two stepchildren and five grandchildren.

JOHN SEXTON is president emeritus of New York University and dean emeritus of NYU Law School, having served 14 years in each role.

He has been chair of the American Council on Education, the Independent Colleges of New York, and the New York Academy of Sciences, as well as president of the Association of American Law Schools. He also has chaired the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Sexton is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, a member of the Council on Foreign Relations, and the recipient of 25 honorary degrees. He has received the ACE's Award for Presidential Leadership, and has been named one of America's leading university presidents by Time magazine.

Throughout his service as dean and president, Sexton taught a full schedule of courses (at least four a year). His focus on students earned him NASPA President's Award for advancing the quality of student life on campus. He continues to teach at NYU but also has devoted himself to providing education for the displaced and the poor. Sexton was the founding chair of the University of the People, a tuition-free online accredited American university serving tens of thousands of displaced persons in 200 countries.

Commonweal Magazine honored Sexton as its Catholic in the Public Square. France has inducted him into its Legion of Honor of France, and the United Arab Emirates has awarded him its highest civilian honor. In 2000, Emory University named him “Outstanding High School Debate Coach of the Last 50 Years.”

Sexton is the author of several books, including his 2013 book, Baseball as a Road to God, which was a New York Times Best Seller.

Sexton earned a B.A. in history and a Ph.D. in religion from Fordham University, as well as a J.D. from Harvard Law School. He served as a law clerk at the United States Supreme Court to Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court Warren Burger.

He married Lisa Goldberg in 1976; she died in 2007. They have two children and five grandchildren.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

AMY HERMAN '88 is the founder and president of The Art of Perception Inc., a New York-based organization that conducts professional development courses for leaders around the world, including at NATO, the French National Police, Doctors Without Borders, and Interpol.

For 16 years, Herman has provided leadership training to top officers in the United States military, law enforcement, medicine, education, and industry. Her innovative, interactive pedagogy—which uses artwork as a means to challenge people to change how they see things, make keener observations, and tactfully glean information from any situation to more effectively perform their jobs.

Herman, who authored Visual Intelligence: Sharpen Your Perception, Change Your Life; Fixed: How to Perfect the Fine Art of Problem Solving; and smART: Use Your Eyes to Boost Your Brain, previously was the head of education for 10 years at The Frick Collection in New York City, where she oversaw educational collaborations and community initiatives. An art historian and attorney, Herman is a member of the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Bars.

Herman holds a Juris Doctor degree from George Washington University Law School, and a Master of Arts in art history from Hunter College.

It was during her days as an international affairs major at Lafayette, where she also studied art history, that Herman “discovered something in my liberal arts education I wouldn’t have otherwise: how powerful art is,” she says. “Now, I teach others how to look at art as data they’ve never seen before, ask questions, and use the power of perception to bring a fresh set of eyes to what they do every day.”

GEORGE WHARTON PEPPER PRIZE WINNER

The 2024 George Wharton Pepper Prize, given annually to the senior “who most closely resembles the Lafayette ideal,” has been voted upon by students and members of the faculty and administration, and awarded to Remy Oktay.

The engineering studies and environmental studies double major and data science minor has successfully launched a variety of projects during his tenure at Lafayette College. In 2022, Oktay solicited FAA approval and piloted what is presumed to be the first manned electric plane stadium flyover at the Lafayette vs. Lehigh football game. The project brought awareness of electric aviation to the nation’s longest-running college football rivalry with its “Lafayette Gets Electric” campaign.

That same year, alongside Kristen Stuedel '22, Oktay installed tree swings throughout campus to celebrate Earth Month. Over the past two years since that first installation, he has led a team to develop and refine the original design to reduce impact on the trees’ branches and make the swings safer for humans. The aim of the project is to get the community outdoors, engaged with each other, and caring about trees in order to help combat climate change.

As an engineer, environmentalist, and Creating and Performing Arts (CaPA) scholar, Oktay finds unique ways to challenge that status quo. During a sophomore year sculpture class in which students were tasked with molding 100 identical plaster objects, Oktay realized it would take days to complete the assignment. He chose to cast life-size feet and arrange them walking up to and climbing 50 feet into a tree on the campus Quad, with the goal of inviting the community to climb trees. He invented his own casting system that dried faster, allowing him to create his 100 feet in less than 24 hours.

For the past three years, Oktay has served as an innovation lead for the Dyer Center, which offers a four-year fellowship that helps foster entrepreneurship and fund innovation projects. Oktay has relished the opportunity to connect with other entrepreneurial students through the program.

Among his accomplishments, Oktay also conducted research through the Bergh Family Fellow Summer Research scholarship, and is a Marquis Fellow. After graduation, Oktay plans to spend his summer finalizing the next phase of the swings, working with the Lafayette Patent Program to patent the technology, and launching a company that will bring the swings to other campuses and green spaces across the country.

Whether it is through connecting humans to nature, raising awareness of the climate crisis, or just having fun together, Oktay focuses his passion and his drive on one thing: community. “I want people to feel connected,” he says. “Let’s dream about what the world could be like, and start fighting for that.”

DEGREES IN COURSE

Lafayette College will confer the following degrees in course: Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science in Biochemistry, Bachelor of Science in Biology, Bachelor of Science in Chemistry, Bachelor of Science in Computer Science, Bachelor of Science in Environmental Science, Bachelor of Science in Geology, Bachelor of Science in Integrative Engineering, Bachelor of Science in Mathematics, Bachelor of Science in Neuroscience, Bachelor of Science in Physics, Bachelor of Science in Psychology, Bachelor of Science in Chemical Engineering, Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering, Bachelor of Science in Electrical and Computer Engineering, and Bachelor of Science in Mechanical Engineering. The major programs of the Bachelor of Arts candidates are noted following the degree.

Degree recipients with outstanding scholastic records are graduated with academic honors. Those exceptional students with cumulative averages of 3.85 or higher (where A equals 4.0) are graduated summa cum laude. If the average is at least 3.75 but less than 3.85, the degree is granted magna cum laude. Those students with cumulative averages of at least 3.65 but less than 3.75 graduate cum laude. The following list of graduates and their honors is as complete and accurate as possible at the time of printing.

To view a list of the 2023-24 academic awards, please scan the QR code to access the Honors Convocation program. Printed copies are available at the hospitality tent.

NOTES ON THE CEREMONY

THE PROCESSIONAL MACE

The tradition of the mace in the academic ceremony is the result of a long evolution. From the 11th to the early part of the 16th century, the mace (derived from the French masse) was a short wooden club used in hand-to-hand combat. Commonly, medieval monarchs were protected by trusted sergeants-at-arms who carried maces, and in courtly surroundings the weapon soon came to be regarded as a royal symbol. Often, it was richly decorated with engraved silver and gold ornamentation, such as the royal seal and coat of arms.

Today, the mace is a symbol of the sovereignty of the College and, at Lafayette, is carried by the faculty member senior in rank of full professor in the academic procession opening the annual Commencement Exercises.

The processional mace used in today's ceremony was presented to the College in 1954 as a gift of the Class of 1904. Designed by Frederick K. Detwiller, a member of the 1904 class and artist-in-residence at Lafayette from 1948 until his death in 1953, the intricate ornamentation was executed in silver by Tiffany and Company. The head of the mace forms a loving cup engraved on one side with the coat of arms of the Marquis de Lafayette, and on the other with the College Seal. On the seal is a portrait of the young Lafayette and the College motto, Veritas liberabit ("The truth shall make you free"). The mace is topped by 12 scrollwork flanges, symbolic reminders of the sharp iron blades that barbed the head of the original battle weapon.

The Dean of the Faculty carries an elaborately carved wooden mace that, like the processional mace, was first used at Commencement in 1954. A gift of Gottfried Eypeltauer, an Austrian exchange student who attended Lafayette in 1950–51, it was carved in Austria and bears the College Seal and the coat of arms of the Marquis de Lafayette.

The other marshals' batons are for the most part made from the stair rail of the house long occupied by Professor Francis A. March. The batons were first carried at the inauguration of President John Henry MacCracken in 1915.

THE ACADEMIC COSTUME

The origin of academic dress can be traced to the medieval university, when robes were often necessary for warmth in the unheated halls where scholarly enclaves gathered. Today, however, the scholar's gown has become a ceremonial symbol of academic distinction.

In the United States, formal guidelines for academic dress were initiated in 1895 at a national conference of educational leaders hosted by Columbia University. Perceiving the need to determine a common set of practices among the rapidly increasing number of American colleges and universities, representatives formed an Intercollegiate Code on academic dress. Revised in 1932 and 1959, the Intercollegiate Code still provides the descriptive guidelines for interpreting ceremonial dress at an academic convocation today.

By stipulating design and color variations in the ceremonial robe, the Code provides a system to distinguish the academic degree, institution, and field of study of the wearer. The traditional robe is black, but at some institutions earning a doctorate carries with it the privilege of wearing a robe in the institutional color.

Degree: The shape and size of the hood and the design of the sleeves indicate the academic degree of the wearer.

- Bachelor's Degree: Pointed sleeves; usually without hood
- Master's Degree: Long, closed sleeves with arm slits; narrow hood
- Doctor's Degree: Bell-shaped sleeves; broad, draped hood

Institution: The color of the lining of the hood denotes the college or university by which the degree was conferred. A partial list of degree-granting institutions is included here:

- Lafayette: Maroon and white
- Carnegie Mellon: Tartan
- Chicago: Maroon
- Columbia: Blue and white
- Duke: Blue and white
- Harvard: Crimson
- Johns Hopkins: Old gold and sable
- Pennsylvania: Red and blue
- Penn State: Blue and white
- Princeton: Orange and black
- Washington: Purple and gold
- Yale: Blue

Field of Study: The color of the hood facing identifies the field of study in which the academic degree has been conferred.

- White: Arts, Letters, Humanities
- Gold: Science
- Dark Blue: Philosophy
- Scarlet: Theology
- Purple: Law
- Orange: Engineering
- Brown: Fine Arts
- Green: Medicine
- Copper: Economics
- Light Blue: Education
- Pink: Music
